We Provide Important Insight That Helps Prevent Downtime During the Project

As a private inspection provider, we can be involved in your project as early as the planning stages. This allows us to offer our expertise and guidance to ensure that the project meets all the necessary regulations and standards.

During the planning phase, we can review the project plans, blueprints, and specifications to identify any potential issues or concerns. We can also work with the design team to ensure that all of the project is feasible and can be constructed in a safe and compliant manner. By being involved in the planning stages, we can help everyone make informed decisions, identify potential risks, and avoid costly mistakes.

This can ultimately lead to a smoother and more successful project that will finish faster and with less downtime.

We're Ex-City Inspectors Who'll Help Make Sure Your Project is Done Right

We carry all of the professional licenses you'd expect, but it's our local building and municipal experience that makes us different. That's because we've worked for some of the same cities we do inspections in. And now, many of those same cities have hired us as their outside contractor for inspections.

Built on Higher Standards

We hold our inspections to a higher level of standards that meet or exceed the city's. Plus, our insight and experience working with those local municipalities will provide peace of mind and confidence that your project will ultimately be completed in a safe, compliant, and timely manner.
